We, the Senior Class of Peshastin High School, being of unsound mind, of weak heart, and having but a few short hours to dwell among the horrors of the trials and tribulations of our high school days, and being on the verge of departing for realms unknown, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking any wills heretofore made by us at any time we may have chanced to be in our right minds.

Don Cheetham wills his dancing ability to all the boys who can’t dance and his everlasting oneryness to Jack Heerman.

Bob Heerman wills his height and ways with women to Ervin Jeske. Would will his basketball ability, but needs it for future use.

Charles Bowen wills his straight black hair to Noel Corriell and his Fleetline to all the poor people who have to walk.

Darwin Steele wills his tardiness to Dick Miller and all his speeding tickets to Leo Sax.

Loren Hills wills his going steady to Pat Gray.

Austin Riley wills his ping pong playing to Lyle Mann.

Rodney Gere wills his driving ability to Jewell Schmaltz.

Donna Smithson wills her artistict ability to Althe Myers and her being Queen to next year’s lucky Senior girl.

Lillian Carter wills her sense of humor to Dale Kinkade and her ways of getting around to the future freshman.

Anna Thomas wills her freckles to Shirley Radke.

Audrey Williams wills her wittiness to Dale Porter.

Louise Lemons wills her way of staying home while her man is gone to Audrey Allen.

Arelene Jeske wills her height to Ronald Rankin.

Hazel Moody wills her job in the office to next year’s office girls.

Rosetta Anderson wills her quietness to Betty Mae Burnett.

Nona Myers wills her ability to cut stencils to the next year’s Hi Log typists and her bookkeeping workbook to anyone who can balance it.
Prophecy

As you all know, we the Class of 1948, took off from our High School on a jet propelled dumbbell, determined on the whole against settling down for the remainder of our days in Peshastin. As a result we are scattered, in 1958, over most of North America.

Lil Carter and Nona Myers, who have never parted since leaving P.H.S. made enough money as fruit knockers (and I mean knockers) in the past ten years to pay for a vacation in which they plan to visit all of the Class of 1948.

The first one they run across is Audrey Williams. How she ever got to Los Angeles is beyond them but they find "Willie" designing dresses for a Hollywood Studio. She is very chic and perfectly poised. After visiting with her for a couple of hours they take a plane for Arizona. Landing at an airport where — Bob Heerman is the big city guy, they barge in on him unannounced. Same old Bob, head in the clouds and non-chalant. He is still playing basketball and for five years his team has won the State Championship trophy — Being such a busy executive Bob cannot visit long but arranged a free ride for Lil and Nona on a commerical plane to Mexico.

Arriving in Mexico they are attracted to an elaborate Neon sign along the highway leading from the airport advertising a dine-and-dance cabaret. Being hungry they enter — Imagine their surprise when the floor show starts to find that Hazel Moody is the biggest drawing card of the year. Hazel started rumbaing in P.H.S. After the show Hazel comes to their table. She says they are the first folks from Peshastin to visit her. She asks them to stay overnight and they do.

In the morning they take the first plane out for Georgia. It is very choppy over the Gulf of Mexico and the stewardness comes to see if all is well with them. She is none other than Rosetta Anderson. She is just the same quiet girl that she was in High School. When the weather becomes smoother she visits with Nona and Lil. She says that she has at one time or another, taken care of every member of her class. Rosetta says that they will fly to Miami Beach, they will find a classmate but she will not tell who.

Taking her tip they fly to Miami. There among the bathing beauties is a tall man. He is a beauty judge. Coming closer they are surprised to discover Charles Bowen. It isn't too much of a surprise to find him among the beauties. The shock is that he is still single. They ask him what he is waiting for and he says "For Bob to come help me".
Class Prophecy

Anna Ruth Thomas lives in Kentucky so to Kentucky they fly. Anna also is still single but the owner of a beautiful country home and a wonderful string of racing horses. Applying the old pump tactics the girls discover that Anna is about to say "Yes" to a man who owns almost as many beautiful horses as she does. Come on Anna hitch up to that string and control all the prize winners in Kentucky.

Nona suggests that next trip they try thumbing a ride to Indiana and next day they arrive at Fort Wayne. Here they find Loren Hills and Rosie. They are still happy in spite of four little Hills to separate them at the dinner table. Loren is a bridge builder and so they move from place to place, but Rosie says a year or two more and they will have saved enough to go back to Peshastin where the little Hills can nestle among the mountains.

Loren tells them that Donna Mae Smithson lives in Virginia. The girls back track to a beautiful little valley near Richmond where they find Donna extremely happy taking care, not of the twenty-four children she had always wanted, but personally supervising the care of 1500 orphans ranging in age from one month to eighteen years. We predict that her orphanage will become as well known in a few years as Father Flannigan's Boys Town. Donna's motto is "An Apple A Day Keeps The Doctor Away." Just can't get away from apples and she is still queen in 1500 little and big hearts. (We always knew you'd be like this Donna.)

From Virginia the girls head north to Pennsylvania where they find Austin Riley literally giving his life to advance the welfare of the coal miners. By research and effort he had improved mining conditions until most people envy the miners with their white, vine covered homes and their air conditioned, underground work.

Austin urges the girls to rest for a few days but New York is calling and they make their way to the "Tall Girls of America Club." Don Cheetham is manager of this great enterprise and he is certainly in his glory among women, women, women. Nona is inclined to linger and talk of the good old days but Lil insists that they hurry to the waterfront where the Queen Mary has berthed. The last passenger is coming down the gangplank but standing on the bridge is the Captain resplendent in gold braid and natty uniform. Closer inspection reveals him to be Ward Dennis and Lil, forgetting his dignity and responsible position, roars out "Hi Shorty" at the top of her lungs. Dignity and gold braid nearly collapse but the girls are invited aboard and spend a pleasant two hours reviewing the varied events from the winter day when Ward said "Good bye Peshastin" and "Hello Navy," to the time when he assumed the command of one of the World's Largest and most luxurious liners. Ward's home is in every port where his vessel docks. The girls report that when they have ten years' more wages than an ocean trip will be their vacation.

Since money is running low, the girls head west. At Des Moines, Iowa the plane is grounded because of bad weather and the girls begin looking through the telephone directory in hopes of finding a familiar name. Their search is rewarded when they find the name "Rodney Gere, cowpunching."
They call him up and in a few minutes hear screaming brakes as Slim still drives as in high school days. He takes them out to the biggest cattle ranch in Iowa where he is foreman.

Rodney is craving Wenatchee valley apples and they promise to send him some C.O.D. when harvest starts.

In the late afternoon the weather clears and the journey is resumed to General Mills in Minnesota. They are mistaken for girls applying for jobs and are steered into the clinic. A tall lady Doctor comes in with stethoscope and rubber hammer. It is Arelene Jeske. She takes them out of the clinic and for the next hour neglects her job shamefully while learning about the old classmates. Arelene tells the girls about Darwin Steele. He is touring the Great Lakes area as a "Youth for Christ" speaker evidently following in his fathers footsteps. Arelene reports that Darwin has two children. Heading west and south to Lil's home, three passengers come aboard in Wyoming none other than Louise Lemons, her husband, and Dick junior. Her husband is a succesful architect and they are on their way to Peshastin for the first vacation in ten years. Lil, Nona, and Louise suggest that ten years hence they once again get out the jet propelled dumbell and travel and trace the life events of the Class of '48.

Royalty

On Saturday night April, 19, 1948 the 14th annual Senior Ball was presented. Our lovely queen, Donna Mae, with her princesses, Nona, and Hazel, reigned in royal fashion. The theme, "Deep Purple", was beautifully carried out with a high rock wall around the gymnasium. The Blue Jackets supplied the music, and the evening was enjoyed by everyone.
"Deep Purple!"

So there!

Huh??

Put em up!

Our Queen??

Just Donna

Remember?
